Quality Design | It's all in the detail

At PDS we have a reputation for excellent customer service. Our prices are very competitive and we guarantee to deliver on time. With over 25 years of manufacturing experience, this gives a very positive effect on the way things are organised within the company and has allowed us to move forward with confidence.

Many of the benefits of a halo sliding door are plain for all to see. Others however, are more subtle to be found in the detail. The design of the Halo patio door is compatible with all window systems. Another detail worth noting is the construction of the Halo sliding door itself. Outer frames can either be fully welded or mechanically jointed on-site. This allows for easy installation in project sites that have restricted access.

The Halo sliding door system is designed to co-ordinate perfectly, as such, it offers the highest quality standards, precise specifications and tight tolerances with great aesthetic appeal.

The design and structure of our patio door, with its exceptional stability, offers many benefits:

- Sculptured or chamfered bead
- Extra durability for the elements thanks to minimal wear
- Extremely smooth running sliding doors, moving at the slightest touch
- Offers high security
- Large units are easily achieved
- A wide range of colour options from stock
- Outer frames can be welded or mechanically jointed
- Low threshold option available

Sliding doors add a bold style statement to both houses and apartments and our patio doors are uniquely striking. Slim frames and chamfered edges give them a distinct, sleek appearance.

Steel reinforcements provide solid stability that allows even the largest sliding doors to run with real smoothness.

A variety of configurations - 2, 3 or 4 pane options - are also available. These are vital in helping you to make the most of the natural beauty and window space your home offers, both in terms of height and width.

Special stainless steel wheels ensure that doors run exceptionally smoothly

Optional thermal inserts for improved energy efficiency

Integrated letterplates are a practical accessory for porch or entrance application
